Hotel undergoing renovation

Waveland Resort Inn to become Holiday Inn

BY MARY G. SEILEY

The day after Christmas, workers wielding their walkie talkies moved carefully about, in and around a series of buildings that are under transformation in Waveland.

It smelled like fresh paint in the uncommonly cold, breezy outdoors, where there were a few scant hints of what the buildings used to be and what they will be -- a $1.3 million rejuvenation of the old Waveland Resort Inn.

When that familiar, towering sign comes down from its Highway 90 site, a new Holiday Inn sign goes up, and the doors swing open to a 96-room, two-story, almost-new accommodation complex.

Ironically, the motel was constructed under Holiday Inn plans, says Steve Lady, co-owner, but it opened as a Club Motor Lodge, about the time that NASA was establishing Stennis Space Center.

When the Lady family bought the property 20 years ago, it had just lost its Ramada franchise. They renamed the motel the Waveland Resort Inn and have, for the past two decades, operated the motel, restaurant and lounge on property at the intersection of Highway 90 and Highway 603.

When the motel hangs out its Holiday Inn sign, it will be the only motel in that franchise between New Orleans East and Gulfport, sitting at a totally rejuvenated intersection. Highway workers are expected to finish a four-lane project on Highway 603 this spring, upgrading what was a sleepy, two-lane road into a major connection with Stennis International Airport and Interstate 10.

Meanwhile, a skeleton crew of eight or nine employees has kept about 50 of the motel rooms open during construction, with half of those occupied by workers with a W.G. Yates Construction Co., of Jackson. Many of the subcontractors are locally-owned firms.

Lady said one reason the motel was kept open during construction was to avoid layoffs of the entire staff. "We try to be as loyal to our employees as they are to us," he says. Some have been Waveland Resort Inn employees from its earliest days of operation.

But there will be some fresh faces in the renovated motel -- Lady said a recent job fair attracted some 200 applicants for a total of about 30 positions.

One new position the Ladys expect to fill is that of sales director, to market the hotel in particular to corporate business travelers.

The Waveland Holiday Inn will feature some amenities attractive to such travelers, including an exercise room, laundry facility and a "marketessen" -- a store that's part market and part deli.

Accommodations will include

Waveland attorneys to settle dispute

BY RICHARD MEEK

Bay St. Louis businessman Chris Roth was hoping for an early Christmas present from the city of Waveland.

Instead, he will have to wait until the new year, as Waveland city attorneys are looking into a $1,200 bill Roth has submitted to the city but that remains unpaid.

Roth is contending the city owes him that amount for services he says he was authorized to perform by Waveland Mayor John Mason and the Board of Aldermen. But city attorneys are not so sure Roth's claim is valid.

The dispute dates back several months ago when Roth was granted verbal permission during a workshop to investigate whether the city was receiving the best possible policies at the lowest rates from longtime agent, Treutel's Insurance Agency. Roth was going to be paid a percentage of the savings he would be able to uncover for the city.

After giving Roth authorization, the board spread the action on the minutes of its next meeting, with the stipulation the agreement be governed by a contract agreeable to both parties.

Not long after, but after Roth had apparently begun preliminary work, Mason decided the contract was unsatisfactory and canceled the agreement. Roth subsequently submitted the $1,200 invoice, which has gone unpaid.

Waveland alderman involved in lawsuit

BY RICHARD MEEK

A family feud involving Waveland Alderman Jay Fleuriot is headed for a courtroom showdown.

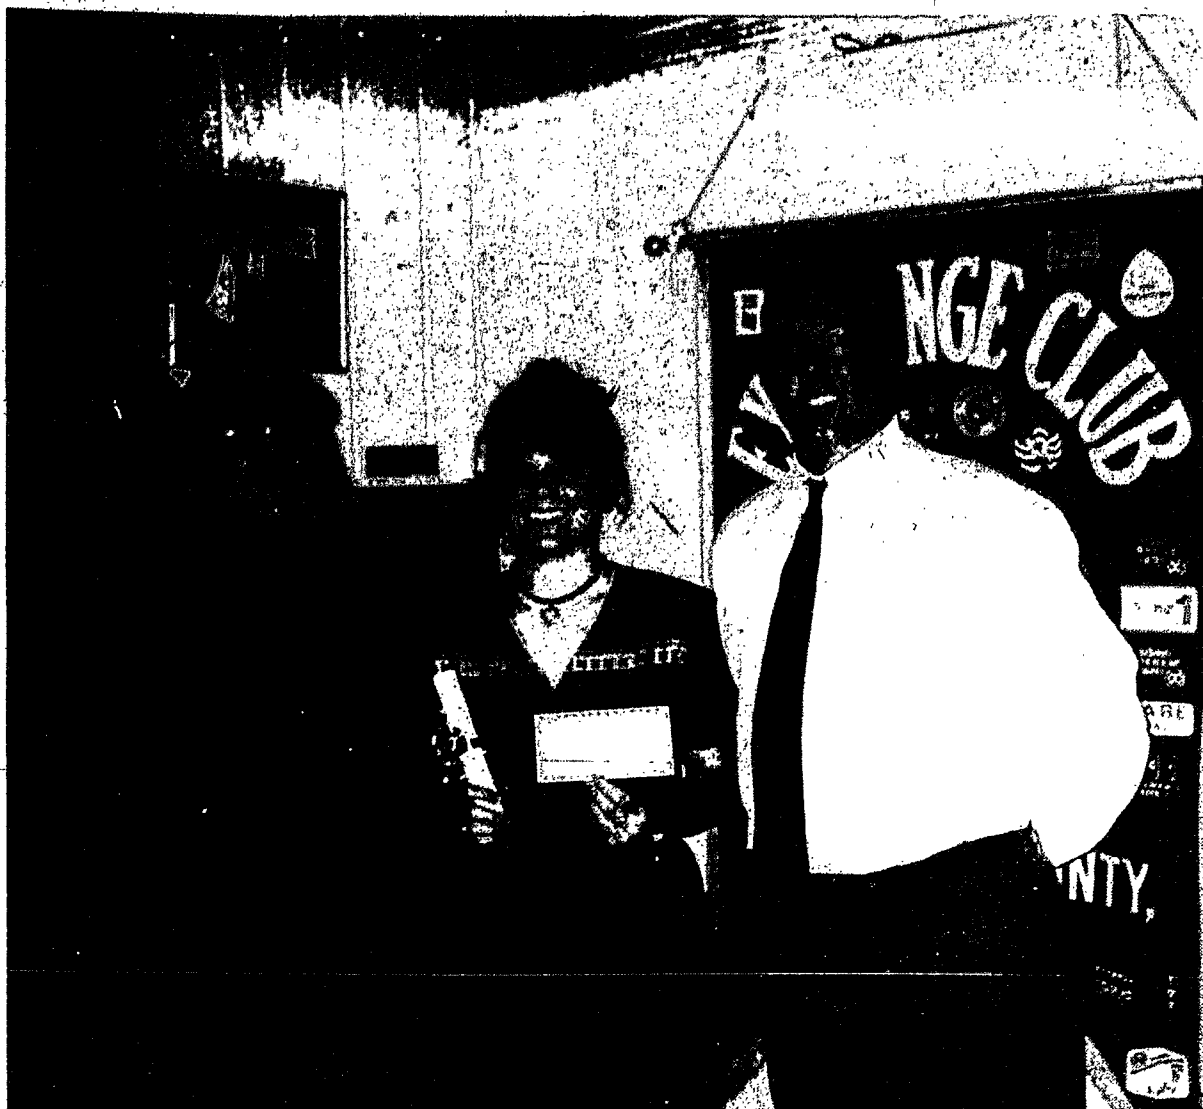

A Feb. 19 trial date has been set in a breach of contract suit against Fleuriot filed by his brother-in-law and the brother-in-law of former Waveland Mayor Stella Frilot. At stake is up to $500,000.

Fleuriot's brother-in-law, Spencer Smith; and Larry Frilot, brother-in-law of Stella Frilot, are partners in Central Monitoring, an alarm company based in Louisiana, but which also conducts business in Mis-issippi. Fleuriot was employed by Central Monitoring, more commonly known as Alarm Protection Service (APS), in September of 1989 and left in June of 1993. But there are discrepancies as to the circumstances surrounding his departure and his job responsibilities.

Smith and Frilot claimed in a lawsuit filed in Chancery Court June 10, 1994, that Fleuriot "commenced on a course of fraudulent, willful, malicious, and unlawful conduct" to injure Central's contracts

Bay High senior Kristie Pierce (center) was named the Hancock County Exchange Club Student of the Month. Presenting the award were Janell Nolan (left), chairperson of the club's Youth of the Month program; and Cary Trapini of Cellular South, whose company donated a $50 savings bond.

Researching a university's history:

Ole Miss issues request for diaries, letters, photos

When it comes to history, there's nothing like reading the stories of people who lived it.

With that in mind, the University of Mississippi is asking that people contact its Sesquicentennial Office if they have old diaries or letters relating to the early years of the institution. Old photos and other memorabilia also are being sought, as well as oral histories.

Any information shared or loaned will be in good hands — those, in fact, of Dr. David Sansing, Ole Miss professor emeritus of history. He's undertaken the challenge of writing the history of the university to be published in 1998 for the conclusion of the ongoing Sesquicentennial celebration.

Thousands of Mississippi school children have learned the history of their state through the textbook Sansing co-authored, "Mississippi History Through Four Centuries," which is used in over 80 percent of the state's public schools. He is the author of a number of other books examining the history of the state, including "Making Haste Slowly: The Troubled History of Higher Education in Mississippi." He is a past president of the Mississippi Historical Society and past recipient of a National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowship.

Sansing has been researching the university for five months and describes the project as a "Herculean task" to do what he wants to do with the history in the amount of time that he has.

"I plan to supplement historical records with personal remembrances and anecdotal material to make this book readable and meaningful," he said. "That's how the people of this state can help me. There are letters and diaries in attics and trunks that could give a very personal view of early campus life."

If there is an author who can bring the university's to life, Sansing is the person for the job, says Dr. Gloria Kellum, executive director of the university's Sesquicentennial. "The perfect choice for this historic project has accepted the job. When Dr. Sansing drops by the Sesquicentennial Office to share something he's unearthed in his research, he's absolutely captivating. His love of history is contagious. In addition to our graduates, I think all Mississippians will be intrigued with this book, as it will paint a fascinating picture of people who shaped higher education in this state," she said.

The Mississippi Legislature chartered Ole Miss in 1848, creating the first public institution of higher learning in the state. Four years later (1848), the university opened the doors of the new Lyceum to its first 80 students.

The historian isn't the first to tackle such a project. "A History of the University of Mississippi" — a narrative of Ole Miss from 1848 through Nov. 1948 — was written by Dr. James Allen Cabaniss, a professor of history, for the university's centennial.

As Sansing works to add the personal angle to his book, he said, "The most enjoyable part so far has been reading the publications produced by the students." Two Ole Miss student literary societies joined in 1875 to start publishing Mississippi Magazine, and students began publishing an annual in 1897.

Anyone with information — such as diaries, letters, photos, memorabilia and personal recollections of events and people — pertaining to the early years of the university, particularly the 1800s, is encouraged to call the Sesquicentennial Office at (601) 232-5826.

EYE CARE

by Allen J. Koskan, M.D.

DEALING WITH A PRESSURE SITUATION

Physicians have been aware of the eye disease known as glaucoma since the days of Hippocrates, 2,500 years ago. The difference is, of course, that the vision loss caused by the rise of inner-eye pressure is largely preventable today. Still, the problem persists that not everyone submits to the regular eye examinations that afford detection and treatment of glaucoma. As a result, the disease causes 15% of all new cases of adult blindness in this country each year. Because the incidence of glaucoma rises with age, experts recommend that adults over the age of 40 schedule a visit to the ophthalmologist every year for a comprehensive eye exam. Once the disease is diagnosed, it can be controlled with eye drops and/or surgery.

Although glaucoma has existed for many years, medical advances have created a means to effectively manage the disease. If you haven't had your eyes examined in a year or more, contact KOSKAN EYE CLINIC at 466-5201 to schedule an exam. My eye exams include thorough examination of the internal and external parts of the eyes and glaucoma and cataract screening. I specialize in the treatment of medically and surgically related eye problems including cataracts, diabetes and macular disorders. I completed a fellowship in glaucoma at the Oschner Medical Foundation. My office is conveniently located at Highway 90, Bay St. Louis, MS.

Best wishes for a happy and healthy New Year to you and your loved ones!

P.S.: Only cataracts and macular degeneration are responsible for more cases of adult blindness than glaucoma in the U.S.

three jacuzzi suites, and three rooms equipped with wet bars that can be used as hospitality rooms. The dining staff will offer buffets and cater banquets, and the bar will serve finger-food as well.

Most of the Waveland Resort Inn's furnishings are practically new, said Lady, so Holiday Inn officials approved their continued use. But the rooms themselves are undergoing upgrades, including new carpeting and installation of a new textured surface on the walls, in lieu of vinyl wallpaper.

Outside, the most dramatic changes are taking place. The old overhang outside the registration area is gone. A mansard roofline is coming. The putt-putt golf area that Lady himself built is gone. The swimming pool is being totally refurbished.

Nostalgic times for the Ladys? Not really, says Lady — the original property has been renovated before under their ownership. "But the putt-putt, when it went, yeah, it was a shame — but it's progress."

Likewise with the 1950-ish overhang that was unique in this area outside the Resort Inn. Its removal, he said, "bothered me a little, just because it had always been here and it was like art deco — but not really."

What's ahead is what excites Lady: Holiday Inn's new look, under new standards the franchise corporation has established.

"They're strict and that just makes us better," said Lady. "We wanted this property to be the very best it could be. And that's what it was designed to be. That's a Holiday Inn."

Construction started in earnest in early October, a couple of months later than originally hoped by the Ladys. But completion is still expected around Jan. 20, said Lady.

The Waveland Holiday Inn franchise is co-owned by Steve Lady and brother Bill Lady.

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

As I sit down to do my column after the long weekend, I feel like the stuffed turkey we had for dinner on Christmas Day.

We all have the intentions of not overeating, yet most of us seem to stuff in a bit too much of food.

I have a feeling even those on weight control programs have problems like the rest of us during the holidays.

It can become expensive to gain weight; it may necessitate a new wardrobe.

I have been battling the waistline for the past few months myself and just do not want to admit my belt has to be two inches longer to go around my waist.

That will mean replacing my trousers, suits, etc. Guess I will have to hit the Hancock County Walking Track on a regular basis once again.

It really did me good when I was a regular on the track. My weight has not changed, I think it is just the shifting of weight, and some muscle has been replaced by fat.

So, one of my resolutions for the New Year will be more time at the walking track.

I sit here and tell myself I will watch what I eat this coming weekend, and I just hope it is not too much.

This is sure not a mild winter compared to the last one.

We have had four cold days in a row, which were probably colder than any day we had last winter.

Christmas morning my friend Harold Masson called me from Colorado to wish Jane and me a Merry Christmas.

He told me how he and Alice had visited a family member on Christmas Eve in the mountains where there was four feet of snow and ice on the ground.

I told Harold that it was cold, and he replied it was colder there.

So I guess we can be thankful our temperature has only been hanging around the freezing point here, as it could be a lot colder.

Many travelers in the United States had holiday plans "blown" by weather conditions as several airline flights were canceled because of the weather.

One of the good signs I am noting is that the days are getting longer, and this means we can look forward to warm weather a few months down the road.

It is a dreadful thing to be tied down in an airport because of a snowstorm. I have never been delayed at an airport because of a snowstorm, but I was at Boston's airport one time because of a hurricane.

The year was 1954 when I was in the United States Army and was being transferred from Fort Devens, Mass. to Camp Gordon, Ga. We spent a day at the airport because of the wind and water on the runway.

It was a miserable day with nothing to do but wait. Several comrades visited the airport bar, and when we did get into the air, many of them got sick and looked real pale.

The flight was pretty rocky, as propeller airplanes were not as comfortable as jets are today.

Keep warm.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To all children-- Greetings from Santa

Ho! Ho! Ho!

This is old Santa Claus writing from the North Pole. I'll bet you thought you would never hear from me, but here I am!

I am so sorry I'm writing so late, but we had a small accident up here. A few weeks before Christmas — while transferring mail to my workshop — one of the mail bags fell off my sleigh and landed in the snow! My elves didn't see it fall. We were having a big snowstorm and it was real hard to see.

Just a few days ago I found Rudolph pawing a snow bank. He was very excited about something. He was jumping up and down and making an awful fuss.

I knew something was wrong, because Rudolph only gets that excited just before Christmas. And here it was after the holiday! Well, I just had to go over and see what he was so excited about.

I stood back and watched while Rudolph dug that mail bag right out of that snow bank! It seems he smelled a chocolate chip cookie in one of the letters, and boy! oh! boy! does Rudolph like chocolate chip cookies!

Your letter was one of many wonderful letters I found in that bag. That's why I'm so late in answering your letter.

The elves and I are already busily designing and making new toys for next Christmas. I sure hope you like what I brought you this year. Be good this coming year, and I'll be sure to stop by again at Christmastime!

Your North Pole Friend,
Santa

Think of Goodwill during your holiday cleanup

Your donation of clothing and other household items helps Goodwill to further its programs of providing jobs and job training to people with disabilities on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Goodwill accepts your donation for resale in its retail stores. The entire income realized is used to employ and train Goodwill's workers with disabilities.

Goodwill has many different types of training programs, including custodial, food service, shelf stocking, communications, retail sales and material handler.

Your donation enables Goodwill to assist individuals become self-supporting taxpayers.

Goodwill gratefully accepts computers, automobiles and other items.

Present environmental and cost consideration make Goodwill unable to accept large appliances. Goodwill no longer repairs household furniture, so it requested that furniture be in useable condition.

Goodwill accepts donations at its retail stores and at its attended collection centers in Pascagoula, Orange Grove and d'Iberville.

In addition, Goodwill has yellow collection boxes at numerous locations on the Mississippi Gulf Coast and schedules free home pickups by calling 863-2323.

As you do your holiday cleanup, please think of Goodwill's employees with disabilities.

They will use your unwanted items to great advantage. Remember the items donated are tax deductible.

Best wishes for a happy holiday season to you and yours from all of us at Goodwill.

FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE

Molpus: When selecting an investment professional, do your homework

Secretary of State Dick Molpus says a little homework can prove to be a solid investment when searching for an investment professional that is right for you.

"You should take the same care in picking an investment professional that you would take in selecting the services of any other professional," said Molpus. "Our goal here is to help take the mystery out of finding a good investment professional and maintaining a satisfactory relationship with him or her."

The Securities Division of Molpus' office is issuing an investor's guide entitled Selecting a Financial Planner, Investment Advisor, or Stockbroker and is distributing a video to public libraries across Mississippi entitled How to prevent and Resolve Problems with Investment Professionals, produced by Investor Protection Trust.

"Start your search for an investment professional by getting recommendations from friends you know to be successful investors, business colleagues, your lawyer, accountant, banker, or other professional whom you may trust," said Susan A. Shands, assistant secretary of state for Molpus' Securities and Business Services Division.

Then look for certain characteristics and qualifications. Investment professionals should:

- Pay attention and act on what you say;
- explain things until you understand them;
- be someone with whom you feel comfortable; and
- be registered with the Securities Division (if listed as a "stockbroker" or "investment advisor") and should not have a history of customer complaints.

"Don't be afraid to ask prospective investment professionals questions about their qualifications and how they plan to handle your account," Shands urged. She encouraged investors to obtain the following information:

- the investment professional's educational and professional credentials;
- how long the investment professional has been in the business and in your community;
- references from three or more clients the investment professional has counseled for at least two years;
- whether the investment professional plans to handle your account personally;
- examples of plans and monitoring reports the investment professional has drawn up for other investors;
- the names of trade organizations to which the investment professional belongs; and
- how the investment professional will be compensated.

If you have established a relationship with an investment professional and a problem arises, contact your investment professional and explain your view of the problem as soon as you are aware of it.

Spell out what resolution you expect within a specific period of time. If the communication with your broker is in person or over the telephone, follow up in writing. Keep copies of all correspondence for your records.

If the situation has not been corrected in the specified time, contact the broker's branch office manager. Again, put it in writing.

If you do not receive a satisfactory resolution at this state, immediately contact the compliance division of the brokerage firm (or managing company) in writing. Send a copy of this letter (and any subsequent letters) to the Securities Division.

For a free copy of the investor's guide Selecting a Financial Planner, Investment Advisor, or Stockbroker or other investment information, call the Securities Division of the Secretary of State's Office at (601) 359-6364 or write to P. O. Box 136, Jackson MS 39205.

To view the video How to Prevent and Resolve Problems with Investment Professionals, contact your local depository library, university library or public library.

rule will also require telemarketers to maintain various records that will assist the state attorneys general and the FTC or Protection at 1-800-281-4418 or (601) 359-4225.

Stopping telephone scams

Can you believe your ears? Not always. Attorney General Mike Moore says many phone sales pitches are phony. Here's how to help stop telephone scams:

—Resist high pressure sales tactics. Legitimate businesses respect the fact that you're not interested.

—If you don't want the seller to call you back, say so. If they call you back, hang up. They're breaking the law.

—Take your time. Ask for written information about the product, service, investment opportunity, or charity that's the subject of the call.

—Your financial investments may have consequences for people you care about. Before you respond to a telephone solicitation, talk to a friend, family member, or financial adviser.

—Hang up if you're ever asked to pay for a prize. Free is free.

—Don't send money (cash, check, or money order) by courier, overnight delivery, or wire to anyone who insists on immediate payment.

—Keep information about your bank accounts and credit cards to yourself, unless you know who you are dealing with.

—Before you pay, check out the company with the Attorney General's Office.

—Hang up if a telemarketer calls before 8 a.m. and after 9 p.m.

—If you suspect a scam, call Attorney General Mike Moore at 1-800-281-4418.

Attorney general has powerful new tool to protect consumers

Beginning Dec. 31, Attorney General Mike Moore will be better able to sue fraudulent telemarketers who prey on consumers in Mississippi, regardless of whether or not the company is based here.

In fact, a new rule announced by the Federal Trade Commission is enforceable by all 50 state Attorneys General, any one of which can get a nationwide order to halt a fraudulent telemarketing operation.

"This new FTC rule enhances what our office is already doing to combat telemarketing scam artists who call Mississippi," Moore said.

"In the last year, the Attorney General's Office of Consumer Protection has levied over $150,000 in civil penalties against telemarketers to cover both restitution to victims and fines for the state of Mississippi.

By prosecuting these telemarketers, Mississippi sends the message that this type of fraud will not be tolerated. We welcome the efforts of the FTC in this matter."

The new FTC rule, which goes into effect Dec. 31, will require that important information be disclosed to consumers up front before any phone solicitation is made, will prohibit a variety of misrepresentations and will impose stiff penalties of up to $10,000 per violation.

"The new act mirrors our own enforcement mechanisms very closely, in both the prohibited practices and the potential $10,000 civil penalty per violation," said Moore. "We also require telemarketers who want to call Mississippi to register with our office so that they will be easier to track down."

The new rule also limits the times of day during which telemarketers can call consumers and prohibits them from calling consumers who have said they do not want to be called, as does the Mississippi Telemarketing Act. The FTC rule will help, however, in prosecuting those who act in concert with telemarketers, such as those companies that sell "sucker" lists (victim lists) to telemarketers. The in enforcing the rule.

Anyone who is contacted by a seemingly fraudulent telemarketer is encouraged to report it to Attorney General Mike Moore's Office of Consumers to maintain various records that will assist the state attorneys general and the FTC or Protection at 1-800-281-4418 or (601) 359-4225.

NASA's Douglas named Gulf Coast Federal Employee of the Year

Freddie Douglas III, a flight systems test chief engineer with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Stennis Space Center, was selected as the Mississippi Coast Association of Federal Administrators' (MCAFA) Gulf Coast Federal Employee of the Year for 1995.

Bill Felder, from the Gulfport District Office of U. S. Rep. Gene Taylor, presented the award during MCAFA's annual awards dinner Dec. 5 at the Keesler Air Force Base Officers' Club.

Douglas, a resident of Slidell, La., has 12 years of federal service.

Selected by Dollar and Sense magazine as one of the country's "Best and Brightest Business and Professional Men and Women," Douglas was also nominated for Black Engineering magazine's Black Engineer of the year for 1994.

As president of the Pi Pi Lambda chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha, Douglas has led several educational projects in St. Tammany Parish, including programs for physically and mentally challenged students; fund raisers for college scholarships; and several education and career fairs.

He has also promoted interest in science and mathematics as a motivational speaker for the Terrebonne Parish school system. Douglas is an active member of Starlight, Missionary Baptist Church and a participant in the "Leadership Slidell" program.

Other nominees for Federal Employee of the Year were Kimberly A. Adams, Keesler Air Force Base; Roscoe B. Bryant, Keesler Air Force Base; Jerry C. Carroll, Naval Oceanographic Office; Andrew L. Clarke, National Aeronautics and Space Administration; James W. Cyphers, Naval Station Pascagoula; Kenneth E. DeAngelo, Supervisor of Shipbuilding, Conversion and Repair, U.S. Navy; Wanda F. DeMaggio, Commander, Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command; Randall K. Geiser, Keesler Air Force Base; Derald M. Johnson, Naval Construction

MCAFA promotes coordination and cooperation among federal agencies in the area. Nominees for Federal Employee of the Year are chosen by their respective agencies, and one is selected by an independent review panel based on job performance, self-improvement, extra professional activity and community/church participation.

The 1995 judging committee was comprised of Don Henderson, administrator, Hancock Medical Center; Hal Waters, executive director, Hancock County Port & Harbor Commission; and Jim Young, city manager, City of Picayune.

Roy S. Estess is president of MCAFA for 1995. Dr. Don L. Durham heads MCAFA's recognition and awards committee. Dana Quesenberry, of WXXV-TV, served as master of ceremonies for the awards dinner.

Stennis commissioning

Commissioning ceremonies for the USS John C. Stennis, America's newest nuclear-powered aircraft carrier, took place Dec. 9 at Norfolk Air Force Base, Va. Attending was NASA's Stennis Space Center Director Roy Estess, along with other members of the space center's staff. Estess presented the ship's captain, Robert Klosterman, with two framed collages of Mississippi, U.S. and NASA flags that flew aboard the first Space Shuttle-Russian Space Station Mir docking mission, orbital photos of Mississippi, as well as other mission photos. U.S. Navy Capt. Robert "Hoot" Gibson was commander of the historical shuttle mission. Shown, the USS John C. Stennis (CVN 74) makes a high-speed turn during rudder checks conducted as part of a highly successful Builder's Sea Trials conducted Oct. 3-6 off the Virginia Capes. During these trials, the ship's propulsion and combat systems were fully tested providing that the John C. Stennis is a combat-ready vessel.

DAV donates van to assist vets

Area veterans need not worry about transportation to and from the Biloxi Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) Medical Center for treatment.

The VA medical facility recently received a van from the Disabled American Veterans (DAV), a million-member-plus nonprofit organization.

The van will be driven by a corps of local volunteers organized by the DAV and its auxiliary. Heading the effort is Walter Wellman, hospital service coordinator at the Biloxi VA Medical Center.

The donation was made possible through a cooperative effort of the DAV's national organization and the DAV Department of Mississippi. The van donation is part of the nationwide DAV Transportation Network.

In making the announcement, DAV officials noted the free transportation services will initially be provided to veterans in South Mississippi, a 100-mile radius of the medical center. They said plans were to expand that service as additional volunteer drivers signed up.

"This program was established in 1987, when budget constraints forced the VA to terminate beneficiary travel benefits for nearby all veterans using VA medical facilities for treatment," said DAV National Director of Voluntary Services, Bruce G. Nitsche. These benefits were paid to veterans to help cover the costs of getting to and from the VA hospital or clinic for treatment.

"Among those affected by the benefit cut were most veterans seeking treatment for service-connected disabilities, as well as indigent veterans who have virtually no other source of health care," Nitsche said.

Area veterans needing transportation assistance — and who live within the 100-mile radius — should contact Walter Wellman at (601) 388-5541.

IRS is trying to return money

Some Mississippi taxpayers should be delighted to hear from the Internal Revenue Service. The IRS is trying to give more than $560,000 back to Mississippians who paid too much in federal income taxes. The post office has sent 677 checks back to the IRS marked

"undeliverable," according to the IRS.

"The refunds range from $10 to nearly $24,000 with the average check being $827," said Bob Douthitt, Jackson District director of the IRS.

"I would encourage all taxpayers on this list to contact the IRS immediately and give us their correct mailing address, so we can get the checks to them as soon as possible."

Anyone due a refund who has not yet received it can call the IRS at 1-800-TAX-1040. Refunds should be received in 4-6 weeks.

Aquarium fees raised

New admission fees will go into effect Jan. 1 at Gulf Coast Research Laboratory's J. L. Scott Marine Education Center and Aquarium in Biloxi.

Dr. Sharon H. Walker, MEC&A administrator, noted that this will be the first increase in the admission charge since January 1990.

New fees will be $3.50 for adults, $3 for senior citizens, and $2 for ages 3-17. Children under 3 years old will be admitted free.

IN AND AROUND DIAMONDHEAD

By Margaret Williamson

New Year 1996

D'HEAD AARP

The Diamondhead AARP starts off the new year with its meeting Tuesday, Jan. 2 at 3 p.m. at the community center.

Peter Harris will be guest speaker. Topic will be the restoration and care of classic and antique automobiles. All you "old-car buffs" won't want to miss this one.

Memberships of $6 per couple, $3 single are now due. Please see Frank Jaumot at the meeting.

WOMEN'S CLUB

The Women's Club will meet 9:30 a.m. at the community center for its first meeting of the new year Wednesday, Jan. 3.

There will be several speakers on "Volunteering in Hancock County." Helping in the many needed positions is very rewarding, so why not participate?

The Woodland Village nursing facility in Diamondhead needs help all the time with activity programs for the residents.

Please call Mrs. Jackson, activity director, at 255-4832.

NEWCOMERS

For the first Newcomers' function in the new year, they invite you to start the season with a Mardi Gras luncheon and fashion show starting with a cash bar at 11 a.m., luncheon at 12. All reservations at $11 per person must be to Barbara Couture by Dec. 30. Phone 255-1585 or send checks to her at 965 Lalla Way. Guests are welcome.

CORONATION

The twelve days of Christmas pass, each day gifts of love are given. The mythical moment approaches, as the veil lifts on the world of make believe, and the carnival season begins.

The Diamondhead Boaters Association Krewe of Kamehameha will celebrate the coronation of their majesties King Akua Kai XXII and his Queen Kathy at the Twelfth Night Ball Saturday, Jan. 6 at 6:30 p.m. at the Grand Ballroom of Broadwater Beach Hotel East in Biloxi. All members are invited.

THOUGHTS TO SHARE

"As the Christmas Season has given you faith, strength and courage to overcome any obstacles there are to face. May the new year '96 bring challenges that inspire you to grow. Now is the time to allow that "special light" within you to burn for all the world to see.

How to achieve your New Year's resolution

"This year I am going to get in shape, lose weight, quit smoking, stop procrastinating, learn another language, climb Mount Everest, etc.," say most people as a new year approaches. New Year's resolutions generally are made with the best intentions, only to be abandoned within a couple of months.

"People try to change too much too fast. It is like a person who routinely walks around the block once a month making a resolution to run a marathon," says Dr. Tom Lombardo, professor of psychology at The University of Mississippi and director of its Psychological Services Center.

He believes the best way to succeed with a resolution is by setting attainable goals and changing specific habits, and offers the following suggestions:

- Set small goals you are guaranteed to achieve. "People are able to make big changes. For instance, over 50 million people have quit smoking," Lombardo says. "For most people, though, the best and most lasting change comes gradually. If you want to begin exercising, set your goal for twice a week—not seven days a week—and build from there."
- Change your environment and sequence of habits. "Habits are associated with environment, meaning people, places and things. If you are trying to quit smoking but are tempted to smoke when you drink alcoholic beverages, do not drink for the first few weeks.

If you are trying to lose weight, get rid of your junk food. If your goal is to walk in the mornings, do that first, then reward yourself with your morning coffee," the Ole Miss professor says.

- Make a public commitment. Make the goal known to friends but be careful to choose only individuals who will support you, Lombardo warns. "Some smokers, for example, do not want to see you quit, and will try to tempt you and sabotage your efforts. But friends can be very supportive and remind you of your commitment."

- Establish a reward system. "Reward yourself at intervals. If you exercised twice during the week, then treat yourself to a movie."

For smokers, instead of buying cigarettes, collect that money in a jar, and eventually buy yourself something you have wanted," he suggests.

- Allow yourself to slip. Nobody is perfect, Lombardo says. "Demands like work and family are going to conflict with your goal. When they do, just accept it and move on. Do not let minor setbacks discourage you from achieving your greater goal."

Operation Lifesaver urges communities to use caution at all rail crossings

- Never drive around lowered gates. It's illegal and deadly. If you suspect a signal is malfunctioning, call your local police department.

- Never race a train to the crossing. Even if you tie, you lose.

- Do not get trapped on a crossing. Only proceed through a crossing if you are sure you can cross the entire track.

- Get out of your vehicle if it stalls on a crossing and call your local police department for assistance. Only attempt to restart if you can post lookouts to warn of approaching trains.

- Watch out for a second train when crossing multiple tracks.

- Expect a train on any track at any time. Trains do not follow set schedules.

- Be aware trains cannot stop quickly. Even if the locomotive engineer sees you, it can take "up to one and one-half miles to stop once the emergency brakes are applied."

- Do not misjudge the train's speed and distance. A train's large mass makes it almost impossible to accurately judge its speed.

Variety comedy show

The next show is planned for March.

What you can do to keep drunk drivers off the road

If a friend wants to drive after drinking:

1. Persuade the person not to drive.

He or she may put up a fight, but don't give in to their rationalizations.

2. Provide alternatives to driving:

- a. Drive your friend home.
- b. Arrange for him/her to ride with someone who's sober.
- c. Call a cab.

3. Prevent your friend from driving until he/she is sober. If necessary, take away the car keys or remove the coil wire from the car. Your friend may be angry with you tonight, but he or she will be alive to thank you tomorrow.

If you spot a drunk driver:

- a. Call the nearest state or local police station.

- b. Give the license number or a description of the vehicle.

2. Keep a safe distance.

- a. Drivers who have had too much to drink are unpredictable.

- b. Don't jeopardize your own safety by getting too close.

- c. Wear your safety belt—it's one of your defenses against drunk drivers.

Some common signs of an intoxicated driver—be alert to drivers who:

1. Drive too fast or too slow.
2. Run over the curb and make wide turns.

3. Weave in a zig-zag pattern.
4. Straddle the center line.

5. Follow other vehicles too closely.

6. Drive with windows open in bad weather.

7. Fail to use lights or signals.

A WORD OF THANKS!

All of us here at St. Stanislaus wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the citizens of Bay St. Louis and Waveland who may have been inconvenienced during the construction of our new Beach Boulevard overpass. We appreciate your patience, and we are sorry if we caused you any trouble. As the old timers know, this overpass replaces the original one built in 1946 and destroyed by Hurricane Camille in 1969. The new overpass will provide added safety for our students and campers for many generations yet to come. For 142 years St. Stanislaus has been a real asset to this community, providing jobs for its citizens, business for its merchants, and education for its youth. This new overpass is another concrete example of our continued commitment to serve this community and its people.

Sincerely yours,
Brother Donnan Berry, SC

Having fun:

A necessity of life

While most people understand that human beings have certain physical needs in life which must be met, they often don't realize that psychological needs are just as important, says Dr. Jean Jones, director of student development at the University of Mississippi.

Fun is one of those needs, but our Puritan work ethic may have distorted the importance of fun for many people, says Jones.

"Fun is just as basic to our lives as food and water, but also one of the first areas we neglect when things are not going well. The irony is that if you don't keep fun in your life, then that alone can cause all the other areas to be unbalanced."

The Ole Miss specialist offers tips to help replenish the psychological need of fun on a regular basis:

- Balance work and play. It's important to realize that different people view fun and work in different ways. Some people cannot relax enough to play until all the work is done, but they run the risk of their fun "gas tank" running too low.

- Know what is fun for you. Women, in particular, are prone to doing such things as sitting in a cold, wet duck blind at 4 a.m., supposedly having fun. But, what is fun for the hunter may not be fun for her.

Individuals must differentiate between doing something for the sake of a relationship and choosing an amusement they especially enjoy, while still finding some common things to do with special people, said Jones.

- Recognize different types of fun. People frequently don't realize that fun also can be a solitary thing. It does not have to be going to a big party or a rock concert. Fun is something you enjoy when no one makes you do it.

To find your own type of enjoyment, look at your life and see what activity you are engaged in when you become oblivious to the time spent or to what is going on around you.

"Look for what gives you an 'Aha, I've enjoyed that' feeling," Jones.

- Make a special effort to include play time in your life. Knowing you need to have fun doesn't necessarily mean you will do it. If you are one of those individuals who has difficulty letting go, you may need to make a specific commitment to fun and program it into your life until it becomes a natural thing to do.

- Teach children the value of fun. Let youngsters realize at an early age that it is important to have fun—balanced with responsibility—and that their idea of fun can be whatever they enjoy.

Selected for HOBY

Bay High School announced that sophomore Stephanie Selzer has been invited to participate in the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation Leadership Seminar on "America's Incentive System." HOBY has conducted annual, all expense-paid seminars since 1958. During these seminars, 10th graders have had the opportunity to meet, interact with, and question regionally, nationally and internationally renowned leaders.

PRCC's accreditation reaffirmed

Pearl River Community College's accreditation was reaffirmed by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) at the organization's 100 annual meeting in Atlanta.

Pearl River, the state's first junior/community college, has maintained continuous accreditation since 1929. Mississippi is one of 11 southern states comprising SACS, a non-governmental and voluntary accrediting agency.

"SACS reaffirmation assures the citizens of our six-county district that the college continues to meet established, nationally recognized accreditation standards," said Ted J. Alexander, PRCC's president.

"I commend our staff, administration and faculty for their efforts over the past three years," said Alexander. "A special commendation should also go to Ann Morris, who directed the self-study process."

Morris said hearing Pearl River's name read aloud as being reaccredited was a thrill. "This is not the end, but just the beginning," said Morris. "Pearl River will continue its self evaluation process."

Attending the meeting with Alexander and Morris were PRCC Deans Miller Hammill, Wes Estey and James Sones.

Each member of SACS goes through the reaffirmation registration every 10 years. Every Pearl River employee participated in the process.

Waveland

"Everything was on go, then it comes to a halt without any explanation," Roth told the board last week.

"In good faith, I was doing what I was instructed to do," he added. "I have time involved. My only difficulty is that you tell me one thing and then do something else. I just want you to treat me fairly."

Alderman Tommy Longo called the matter "a legal thing."

"I hope it's not becoming a personal matter," he said. "Nobody is trying to cause hard feelings. We are trying to find out whether we took action for certain things to be done."

Alderman Jay Fleuriet proposed reverting back to the original agreement, where Roth would continue to research the most advantageous policies for Waveland, and then be paid a percentage of the savings. Roth said he would waive the $1,200 claim if a mutually satisfactory agreement could be reached.

"We must rethink this whole thing," Fleuriet said. "We relied on somebody else to save us money. If we lost (Roth), we close the gate for a valuable service."

Roth is maintaining the city is paying more than it should for its insurance services. He cited how City Clerk Deborah Conrvey recently discovered the city paid $100,000 more than necessary for workmen's compensation.

"But still have significant dollars that you may be able to save," Roth reminded the aldermen.

City attorneys said if no official action was spread on the minutes specifically instructing Roth to perform a service, then, by law, the city cannot pay the claim. They are looking into other available avenues to mediate the matter.

In other matters: The aldermen, over the objection of Fleuriet, approved the city paying full hospitalization for all full-time city employees, with the exception of the four aldermen. All of the aldermen, with the exception of Louis Smolensky, are on the city's health policy.

Fleuriet wanted the resolution to exempt all "elected officials," instead of only the aldermen. He said the 3-1 vote approving the resolution was essentially giving Mason a raise.

Mason challenged that claim, but Fleuriet countered, "Whatever you want to call it, it's a raise."

The city had been paying 80 percent of the employees' health insurance cost, but recently opted to pay 100 percent in lieu of an employee raise. Mason's share of his hospitalization amounts to approximately $50 a month.

The board voted to enter into a contract with community planning consultant Mike Cuevas. The agreement states that the scope of work will be "general in nature" and "may be modified by the mayor and/or the Board of Aldermen as needed to address specific needs."

Cuevas will be paid $12 per hour, not to exceed $240 per week. Additional services will be available at a "negotiated rate," according to the contract.

Also, the city must provide "reasonable clerical and administrative support" to Cuevas, although laws governing an independent contractor may prevent furnishing those services.

Cuevas served in a similar capacity last year, and was paid $16 an hour for her services.

The recently adopted budget called for only $4,000 allocated to contractual services. Fleuriet objected adding the additional $8,000 to compensate Cuevas, who stands to make up to $12,480.

"It's like adding another employee," he said.

Longo came to Cuevas' defense, explaining that the "money brought in" by Cuevas far outweighs "what we paid out."

Again over Fleuriet's objection, the board approved Moore and Powell conducting the city's 1994-95 audit. Fleuriet reminded the board of the recent budget fiasco when the aldermen initially adopted a budget that called for spending nearly $600,000 of the city's $800,000 in cash reserves.

Mason and the aldermen said at the time they were not told by Moore and Powell auditors that the city's reserves were being used. But Steve Dockens of Moore and Powell called the city officials' claims "malarky."

Regarding the audit, Fleuriet asked, "Can't we use someone else. I would think we need to shop."

Mason explained to Fleuriet that "most people use Moore and Powell on the Coast."

City attorney Ronnie Artigues Jr., said the city was already delinquent in having its audit done.

"It's already due," Artigues said.

The board approved 3-0 to authorize Moore and Powell to perform the audit. Fleuriet abstained.

The board authorized Public Utilities Director Steve Landry to reduce the number of employees in the Utilities Department from 12 to 11. The with its customers while Fleuriet was an employee of Central. Additionally, the suit claims Fleuriet, now owner of Coastal Security in Waveland, attempted to "convert the corporate name" of Central Monitoring by filing an application with the Mississippi Secretary of State's office to reserve the company name in his name.

Smith and Frilot claim Fleuriet sent letters to Central's customers advising them that Central was "unable to do business in Mississippi and unable to require them to perform the remainder of their contract."

Fleuriet then went on to secure those customers' business, the suit claims. It goes on further to say that Fleuriet is attempting to solicit business currently under contract with Central.

Central is asking for $50,000 in compensatory damages and $200,000 in punitive damages.

Fleuriet, through attorney Henry Cook of Bay St. Louis, has denied all of the charges and filed a $500,000 counter-suit against Central. In addition, he claims he was fired by Smith and Frilot.

Fleuriet added that many of his customers contacted him regarding alarm system because they were "personal friends" and they friends preferred to do business with Fleuriet.

Fleuriet is claiming Central "failed to fully compensate" him and though he has requested full payment, his demands "have gone totally unanswered."

He is claiming Central owes him $37,099 and is asking for an additional half million dollars in punitive damages. He is also demanding the court prohibit Central from "removing or destroying any and all books, records, papers and vouchers pertaining in any way" to Central's operation during which time Fleuriet was employed by the company.

The case is scheduled to be tried by Chancellor Jason Floyd Jr.

Jackson County donates property

Jackson County officials turned over more than 200 acres of land valued at $3 million to the state College Board Dec. 21 to provide a site for future expansion of the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory.

Carroll Clifford, president of the Jackson County Board of Supervisors, handed the deed to the 213-acre Cedar Point tract, located east of Gulf Islands National Seashore park, to Nan Baker, president of the board of trustees of the State Institutions of Higher Learning, during the board's regular meeting in Jackson.

Jubilant Casino

Celebrate the return of the Roaring 20's

Celebrate the return of the Roaring 20's with a 90's style payoff worth $30,000 in cash and a 1931 sports coupe, Dec. 26-Jan. 14.

Every Tuesday and Thursday at 9 p.m., a drawing will be held. The first name pulled from the entry drum will have the opportunity to receive $1,000 cash, or choose from one of three suitcases, one of which contains $5,000, the other two are empty.

The second name drawn will receive $250 cash (enough dough for a new London Fog raincoat), and the third name drawn will be for $100 cash.

For the grand finale, at 9 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 14, we'll give away a 1931 sports coupe. Come on by for one free registration form each day and earn additional entry forms by accumulating 25 points on your Big Shot Player's Club card, or a blackjack with a $5 minimum bet. And as a special bonus, earn 250 Big Shot Player's Club points and get a colorful collector's "Tell 'Em Joe Sent Ya" t-shirt.

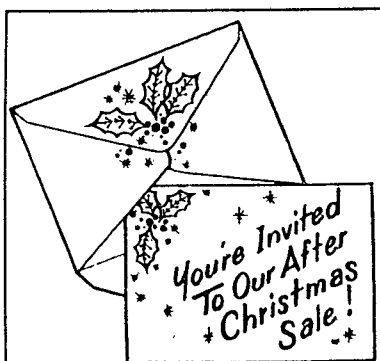

We're also getting ready to ring in an old year — Happy 1920! Our joint will be jumpin' New Year's Eve as Jubilation Casino celebrates the arrival of 1920, and the beginning of a new, roaring era of fun on Bayou Caddy. We'll celebrate with style, dress and cash: complimentary champagne, party favors, hot Ragtime entertainment, a costume contest with $1,000 his and hers prizes for the best 20's costumes, fireworks at midnight, and a balloon drop at 12:15 a.m.

One lucky sheik or sheba will win $5,000 cash at exactly 12:30 a.m. All you have to do to win the big bucks is have the winning entry form. We're going to give you the first entry form free just for coming in, and additional entry forms may be obtained by accumulating 25 Big Shot Player's Club points or a blackjack with a $5 minimum bet. The more you play, the better chance you'll have of winning.

Come in costume of the Roaring 20's for your chance to our $1,000 prize for the best male and female costume contest at 1 a.m. Break out those flapper dresses; coax your raccoon from your closet, put on some spats and a fedora, and win yourself a grand, see?

Come celebrate 1920 all over again at the Gulf Coast's newest and most exciting casino. The last time it was this much fun it was illegal.

A giving season

North Bay students collect for the needy

Students at North Bay Elementary School collected 1,140 cans and other non-perishable food items from Dec. 5-18 for distribution to the needy. The students far surpassed their goal of 435 items, and doubled the amount collected last year. The food should serve about 500 people, school officials said. The food was donated to the Hancock Food Pantry. (Echo staff photo by Richard Meek)

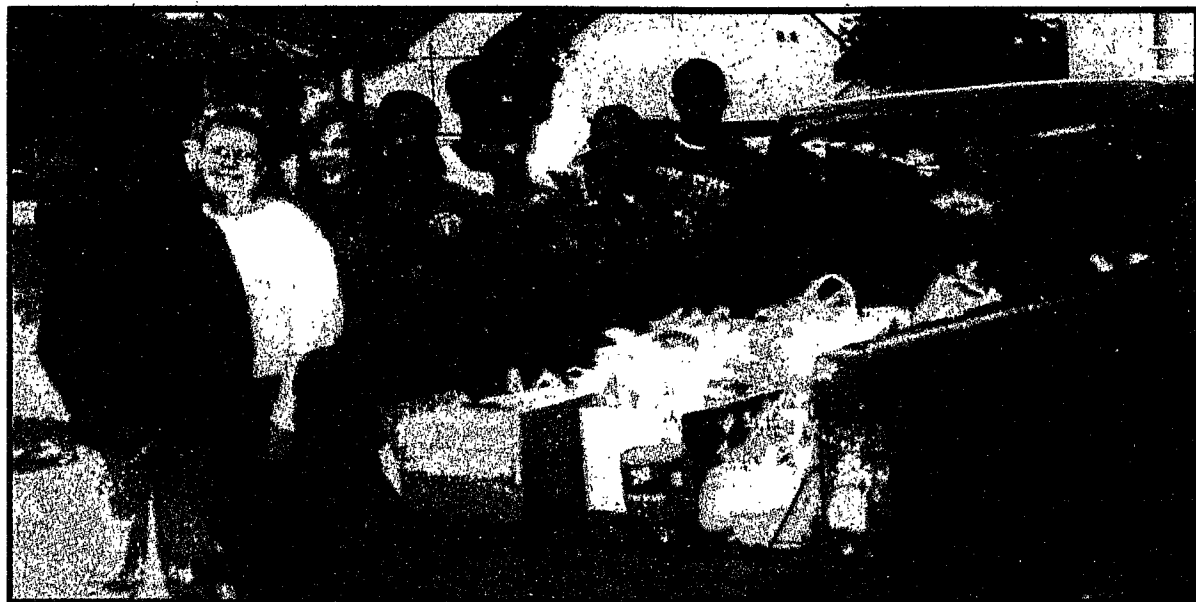

Explorers collect food

The Bay St. Louis Police Explorers collected enough food to feed 18 families in Hancock County. They donated the food to the Community Action Agency for distribution in the county. The Explorers said they collected more than they expected. Pictured (L-R): Mary Ida Girtman, Wendy Stell, Kirsten Cook and Cassie Collier. (Echo staff photo by Richard Meek)

Student Council gives gift baskets

Pantry helpers

Members of the Bay Senior High Rotary Interact Club recently collected food for the Hancock County Food Pantry in front of Jitney Jungle and Winn-Dixie food stores. Store customers made food donations to the club members, sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club. THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1995-3B

BETWEEN THE LINES

By Richard Meek

For the professional couch potato, for the connoisseur of dips and chips, it comes no better than New Year's Day.

Think of it: a pigskin buffet from morning until late into the night. You can travel from coast to coast with the flick of a button. (Excuse me while I go check the batteries on my remote control. It's a guy thing.)

Although several bowls serve as appetizers, January 1 is the entree. Let's take a look at this New Year's Day menu (including the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Eve), with a prediction on each contest. Have pencil and saving account deposit slips nearby.

Sugar Bowl: Undoubtedly, the worst pairing in Sugar Bowl history. Who cares about this one? More importantly, who will watch this pathetic game? For the sake of being a good sport, let's pretend someone actually cares about Texas-Virginia Tech.

Longhorns will have a laugh in the Louisiana Superdome before heading to Bourbon Street to ring in the new year. Bonus points for anyone that can name one Virginia Tech player or the team's nickname. Texas 35, Virginia Tech 10.

Outback Bowl: An outstanding matchup pits Big 10 power Penn State against SEC contender Auburn. The season has been a bit of a disappointment for both teams, which should translate into an exciting bowl game.

Auburn 17, Penn State 6.

Florida Citrus: Being a longtime Ohio State fan, emotion tell me to go with the Buckeyes. But having covered Peyton Manning when he played at Newman High School, sentiment dictates I favor the Vols.

The game will pit this year's Heisman Trophy winner, Eddie George of Ohio State, against Manning, next year's favorite. George will end his illustrious Buckeye career in style, but Manning's arm will carry the Vols. This may be the best Jan. 1 has to offer.

Tennessee 31, Ohio State 28.

Cotton Bowl: Who is Oregon, and what did the Ducks do to deserve a spot in a major bowl?

Colorado has played as well as anybody in the country at times, but could not overcome the Nebraska steamroller. Little trouble for the Buffs. Colorado 41, Oregon 20.

Rose Bowl: Northwestern's dream season ends in harsh reality on the floor of the Rose Bowl in Pasadena. But Mildcat coach Gary Barnett should still be named Coach of the Decade.

USC is an enigma. The Trojans should have contended for a national title but were fortun-nate to get to the Rose. USC fans are left to wonder what could have been. At least the roses will smell sweet, although a bit thorny after the season of disappointment. USC 24, Northwestern 12.

Orange Bowl: Florida State is listed as a 10-point favorite over Notre Dame. Have the oddsmakers indulged in a bit too much eggnog?

Had the Irish not struggled early, they may well be in Tempe playing for the national title instead of Florida. Irish fans should hope coach Lou Holtz decides to return to the press box.

FSU's stock dropped in mid-season, but the Seminoles rebounded late. Nevertheless, not enough to beat ND.

Notre Dame 24, FSU 21.

Fiesta Bowl: Can Nebraska repeat? Exactly how many of the cornhuskers are allowed to cross the state line and not be in parole violation? Does Nebraska warden, uh, make that coach, Tom Osborne conduct a weapons check as well as a bed-check? Is the word "morality" even in a Cornhusker dictionary?

Rocks fall in finals

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The St. Stanislaus Rock-achaw basketball team fell in the finals of the St. Martin-Country Day Holiday Classic in Metairie on December 23. St. Martin's downed the Rocks 57-40 in the finals for the championship, a tournament that the Rocks won last year.

En route to the final game the Rocks dismantled Belle Chase 73-42 in the first round.

The Rocks used a 28-7 third period surge to seal the victory. Terry Lawyer led all scorers with 19 points while Mike Fenasci added 14 points. Maurice Singleton chipped in 11 points for SSC.

In the second round the Rocks survived an 82-77 scare from St. Paul's of Covington. Terry Lawyer pulled the Rocks through with a 30 point performance and Maurice Singleton added 17 points for the Rocks in the win.

The championship pitted the host team St. Martin and St. Stanislaus. SSC fell behind in the fourth period and was never able to recover.

St. Martin scored 23 points to the Rocks nine in the final stanza and held the Rocks to only 16 second-half points for the win.

Terry Lawyer led all scorers with 19 points and was SSC's only double figure scorer.

The Rocks placed second in the tournament that they won last year and have a record of 13-4 going into the Baton Rouge Catholic High Sportsare Classic Tournament on Dec. 27-29.

Project chronicles USM sports, history

By M. E. Williams
Their stories weave athletics into the life and times of the University of Southern Mississippi and south Mississippi. And John Cox, USM's director of sports broadcasting and Voice of the Golden Eagles, loves to listen as USM Sports Hall of Famers reminisce about their days at the university. Put the two together and Cox, with help from Stephen Rouse, broadcast producer for USM Public Relations, is providing USM's Mississippi Oral History Program with and videotaped interviews — a sports history research tool and a link to south Mississippi's daily life and times through the eyes of former USM athletes, coaches and other athletic personnel.

A similar project for the Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame sparked Cox's interest in pursuing interviews with USM legends like former longtime coach and athletic director Reed Green, and onetime radio announcer Bill Goodrich. Before long, he was hearing tales of how coaches like Pie Vann rode athletes hard and earned their lifelong love and respect at the same time. "They've all got a story they're willing to tell," Cox said. "The unique thing about sports is that it encompasses so much more than just the games or the sport itself. You get a picture of the times, of the professors and administration, how the campus looked, and great stories about other people on and off campus and the influence they had on USM at the point in history."

Currently, there are 196 members of USM's Sports Hall of Fame. Of that number, 150 are still alive and about 50 still live in south Mississippi, Cox said. So far, he and Rouse have completed 13 interviews and hope, eventually, to interview as many hall of famers and sports personalities as possible.

For 25 years, USM's Mississippi Oral History Program has been collecting stories about the state's history and recording memories of Mississippians from all walks of life. More than 500 recordings and transcripts compiled for the program are already on file in USM's archives. Dr. Charles Bolton, director of USM's oral history program, sees this project as helping the program fulfill several goals.

"One thing we want to do is provide a recorded history of USM," Bolton said. "This project is a great way to do that, as well as increase our sports archives and the overall diversity of our collection." Bolton said having Cox do the interviews adds to the project because "he is very knowledgeable about the subject and his experience as an interviewer provides us with good material."

Completion of the project depends on Cox's schedule and the schedules of interviewees. He's met with some when they returned to campus for a special event and plans to build time into future Sports Hall of Fame ceremonies to complete interviews at that time.

"Hopefully, we can let enough people know we're doing this so they'll call and say they'll be here and we can do the interviews then," Cox said.

Those interested in reaching Cox should call (601) 266-5017. To find out more about USM's Mississippi Oral History Program, phone (601) 266-4574.

Lee named gridiron All-American

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Michael Lee, of Bay St. Louis, has recently been named a Hewlett-Packard Division III All-American in football. He was named to the 18th annual Division III third team list as a running back. Lee, a five foot ten inch 185 pound fullback who prepped at St. Stanislaus, played for the Lynx of Rhodes College in Memphis, Tennessee. The 1995 football season was his senior season. Lee rewrote the Lynx record books with his performances on the gridiron in 1995. He rushed for over 200 yards in a game twice this season including a 258 yard performance that saw him score five touchdowns against Millsaps College in Jackson. In nine games, Lee rushed for 1,374 yards which set the single season mark at Rhodes. He also set the mark for most carries in a game with 48 against Centre College. Lee led Rhodes College to a share of the Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference title with Centre and Trinity College. Lee made SCAC All-Conference first team honors and was named the SCAC Player of the Week twice during the season. He was the only SCAC player honored as an All-American this year.

Gulf Islands photography contest

On Jan. 8, 1971, President Richard Nixon signed legislation preserving some of the last undeveloped coastal barrier islands. Almost 25 years later, Gulf Islands National Seashore is one of the country's most visited National Parks. Due to this popularity, Gulf Islands is asking the public for help with a special 25th Anniversary exhibit. Long before there was a National Seashore, families boated to Horn, Petit Bois and the Ship Islands. Many local residents describe seeing the islands with their parents years ago. Since at least the 1920's, excursion craft have taken passengers for day trips. Some returning visitors describe seeing the islands during military service in the 1940's. With this in mind, park staff and volunteers are creating a photographic display depicting memories of Mississippi's barrier islands before and since the National Seashore's creation.

Rangers are hoping people will share photos and postcards illustrating personal trips to the islands. Park Ranger Gail Bishop says, "We want to show people enjoying the barrier islands through the years. There was so much interest back then by the local community in creating a National Seashore." Local efforts to create Gulf Islands began in the 1960's with community concern at preserving West Ship Island's Fort Massachusetts. The then 105 year-old fort needed restoration and beach erosion threatened eventual collapse. Coast community leaders, assisted by Mississippi Congressman William Colmer and Florida Congressman Bob Sikes, worked through the later 1960's to gain Congressional approval. Today, over five million visitors annually stop at Gulf Islands National Seashore. The Mississippi District alone had over 1,300,000 visitors in 1994. Ranger Bishop hopes to see photographs from various decades of people enjoying the beaches, staying at the old quarantine station, exploring island lighthouses and walking through Fort Massachusetts. Park staff is also trying to locate several photographs of island visitors dating as far back as the 1900's. All photographs will be returned, and rangers will try to give credit. If possible, please accompany pictures with a short explanation of time, place, activity and names. Please lightly write a name, phone number and address on the back with a soft lead pencil. Do not write on a photograph with ballpoint pen! The exhibit of visitor photographs will go on display in January of 1996. Photographs can be left with Rangers Gail Bishop and Mike Hobbs at the Mississippi District Headquarters. The Davis Bayou Visitor Center is located off Hwy. 90 East in Ocean Springs. For information, call 601-875-0074.

BACKACHE.

The little pain that lasts and lasts.

Back pain often starts small. Sometimes it disappears; usually it returns; often it gets worse. If left untreated, back pain can linger for years as a nagging reminder that all is not well.

Your job may be the culprit; you may sit all day hunched over a desk; you may lift heavy objects; you may be constantly bending over, caring for children. These are common causes of misaligned vertebrae of the spine and may be good reasons why you have back pain.

And because the spine is a complex system which is connected to other areas of the body, misaligned vertebrae in the spine can also be the reason for tension, stiffness, fatigue and more specifically back pain and headaches.

Our doctors at HODA CHIROPRACTIC CLINICS are specialists in back care. They can restore spinal vertebrae to their proper position, relieving pain and avoiding further complications.

Make this the last morning your back is left untreated. See Dr. Desmond W. Hoda.

Tips On Writing EFFECTIVE Classified Ads

STICK TO THE FACTS

Prospective buyers need to know details, like the condition of the item for sale, the size, brand name, color and any other relevant information that would help them make a decision.

BE HONEST

Aside from being unethical, exaggerating or misinforming potential buyers won't help you make a sale, and may only serve to lose a prospective buyer's trust. Even if they come to look at what you have to sell, they'll be less likely to buy the item or trust you once they see they've been misled.

SPELL IT OUT

Abbreviations are not easily understood by many people and may even confuse a reader. It only takes them a second to pass over an ad because it doesn't seem clear, why let it be yours because you abbreviated a description?

THE BOTTOM LINE

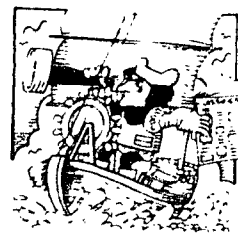

State the price. You'll save yourself the hassle of having to answer calls from prospects who, upon learning the price, are not really interested. Price is the first thing they'll look for when reading your ad, and when prospects know the price, you'll know you have a serious buyer on the line.

BE THERE

List the best hours to call and make sure you're at home. If you don't list a specific time, you could be flooded with calls any time of the day or night. And when you're not at home to take calls, most likely, they won't call back.

ASK US

If you aren't sure how to word your ad or what features to include, why not ask us? Our professionals on staff know how to create an effective ad that sells, they're always willing to help, and there's no charge!

URMET BURGERS

Preparation time: 10 minutes
Cooking time: 10 minutes

Ingredients: 1 lb. ground beef, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. pepper, 4 large hamburger buns, split and lightly toasted, 1/2 cup tomato sauce, 1/2 cup onion, thinly sliced, 1/2 cup lettuce leaves, 1/2 cup cheese slices, 1/2 cup American cheese slices, 1/2 cup processed cheese spread, warmed, 1/2 cup processed cheese spread with jalapeño peppers, warmed, 1/2 cup mustard.

Directions: In a medium-sized bowl, combine ground beef, salt and pepper; mix lightly but thoroughly. Shape into 6 patties, 1/2 inch thick; place on rack in broiler pan (or over ash-covered coals) 3 to 4 inches from heat source. Broil 5 to 6 minutes on each side, turn and broil 5 to 6 minutes or to doneness. Serve burgers between bun halves and garnish with your choice of the following: tomato, onion, lettuce, cheese slices or sauce, catsup and mustard. 6 burgers.
